

La Dolce Vita is a soft-cover publication produced annually for Costa Cruises' Caribbean fleet. The magazine is produced in three languages (English, French and Italian) and exudes a European feel. Besides describing the ports of call and the onboard experience, there are also lifestyle features on luxury goods, destinations, culture and history, all created with the line's internationally diverse clientele in mind. The 2012 Edition will be distributed aboard Costa Mediterranea and Costa Atlantica.

The "Italy in the Tropics" experience on board and on shore is truly what the Italians call "La Dolce Vita," or the sweet life. From authentic Italian pastas and desserts to the warm Italian hospitality and furnishings aboard the vessels, Costa Cruises brings a little bit of Italy to guests sailing the Caribbean. On board you can find everything from bocce ball games to cooking lessons. The ports of call include some of the most idyllic islands in the Caribbean, all boasting premier shopping and touring opportunities. Whether cruisers aboard these ships take in some of the Italian-style entertainment or tarantella dancing under the stars, they'll find many ways to say "That's Amore!"
